Welcome to – the School of Law

Welcome to the School of Law
Inspirng minds
Your life in Leeds
Our global insight and impact
A connected community

OUR RESEARCH

Our research centres

OUR PROGRAMMES

LLM International Banking and Finance Law
LLM International Business Law
MSc Law and Finance
LLM International Corporate Law
LLM International Trade Law
LLM Intellectual Property Law
LLM International Law
LLM International Human Rights Law
MSc Security, Conflict and Justice
LLM Criminal Justice and Criminal Law
MSc Criminal Justice and Criminology
LLB Law (graduate programme)

POSTGRADUATE RESEARCH DEGREES

REALISING YOUR GOAL

Fees and funding
How to apply
See for yourself

Important Information
Information provided by the University such as in presentations, University brochures and the University website, is accurate at the time of first disclosure. However, courses, University services and content of publications remain subject to change. Changes may be necessary to comply with the requirements of accrediting bodies or to keep courses contemporary through updating practices or areas of study. Circumstances may arise outside the reasonable control of the University, leading to required changes. Such circumstances include: industrial action, unexpected student numbers, significant staff illness (where a course is reliant upon a person’s expertise), unexpected lack of funding, severe weather, fire, civil disorder, political unrest, government restrictions and serious concern with regard to the transmission of serious illness making a course unsafe to deliver. After a student has taken up a place with the University, the University will look to give early notification of any changes and try to minimise their impact, offering suitable alternative arrangements or forms of compensation where it believes there is a fair case to do so. Offers of a place to study at the University will provide up to date information on courses. The latest key information on courses, entry requirements and fees can be found at www.leeds.ac.uk/courses. Please check this website before making any decisions.
Great law schools are international law schools.

We are proud to be a truly global community of scholars.

The School of Law at the University of Leeds is a community where through our teaching, research and public engagement we try to have a positive impact on the world.

We have a full time academic faculty of 65 whose teaching is informed and shaped by their research. Our postgraduate programmes reflect that expertise. Whether your interests lie in commercial law, criminology and criminal justice or human rights, you will be taught by world leading scholars who are experts in the fields in which they teach. My colleagues are inspirational teachers who are fully committed to supporting our students to achieve their full potential.

The research carried out by members of the School is frequently path-breaking and my colleagues’ work has been influential in shaping the intellectual and practical development of the law and public policy in several areas. Work by our Centre for Business Law and Practice has influenced the shape of corporate and insolvency law in the UK and internationally. Colleagues in our Centre for Law and Social Justice and the Disability Law Hub played a significant role in the development of the United Nations Convention on the Rights of People with Disabilities and continue to work on finding ways to create laws that ensure a fairer society.

Our Centre for Criminal Justice Studies has profoundly shaped public policy around policing, combating terrorism and punishment. Members of the School regularly give evidence in Parliament, advise governments in the UK and internationally and devise proposals for better regulation of corporate and business risks as well as ways to create a fairer and more just society. In addition to effecting practical changes in law and public policy, my colleagues’ work influences scholarly debates in law, criminal justice, criminology, history, sociology, philosophy and more.

Our students are a central part of our community. Each year we attract students from all over the UK and more than 40 countries worldwide. They make up a diverse and successful group who contribute significantly to the academic and social life of the School. Great law schools are international law schools and our postgraduate students play an important role in the continuing success of this School.

The School has been educating students for more than 100 years and is part of one of the world’s leading universities. We have an exceptional group of alumni, with whom we have close connections, which includes leaders in all parts of the legal profession, criminal justice agencies, education, business and finance and in for-profit and non-profit organisations in the UK and internationally. Many of our alumni have a strong commitment to public service and have been presidents of many national organisations. Our alumni networks serve as an invaluable resource in mentoring students and offering networks of friendship among graduates.

We are very fortunate to have exceptional facilities and are supported by superb staff and extraordinary resources. Our libraries and electronic resources are amongst the best in the UK. The city of Leeds is the second legal and financial capital in the UK and we have long-standing links with solicitors’ firms, barristers’ chambers and criminal justice agencies based in the city.

It is a fantastic time to be part of our law school community and I look forward to welcoming you to the School.

Professor Alastair Mullis
Head of School
STUDYING WITH US

A great educational experience should be one that inspires. Our modules are informed by the latest international research and ensure that you are not only exposed to a range of intellectually stimulating content, but are inspired to enquire, question and develop your own research. Ultimately, inspirational teaching will deliver inspired students - inspired to become tomorrow’s leaders, innovators and agents of change.

THE LEARNING ENVIRONMENT

In addition to the programmes, our vibrant, international student body and twenty-first century School facilities are designed to produce engaged, well connected, global citizens. Students from over 40 countries produce a truly international experience. This helps to create a dynamic atmosphere from which everyone benefits both through the educational experience and the formidable global networks that students develop and sustain long after graduation. The School’s home, the Liberty Building, is a purpose-designed professional space which integrates students within our powerful research hubs. It places students at the heart of what we do.

TEACHING

Teaching is delivered predominantly through weekly small group seminars. There are few methods that can match direct interaction with a world leading specialist and that is why this is central to our teaching approach. Nevertheless, we do utilise a range of teaching approaches and digital aids to cater for different learning styles. Our aim is to cultivate an atmosphere in which class discussion and debate stimulates interest, enquiry and further research.

LEARNING RESOURCES

A specialist law library is situated in the University’s newly refurbished Edward Boyle Library. It has over 50,000 volumes as well as access to a huge range of electronic resources. In addition, the School’s dedicated postgraduate rooms provide you with traditional quiet working spaces as well as a common area. The wider University provides further group working rooms and areas to practise and develop presentation skills. These facilities are designed to mix the traditions of a reading library with state of the art facilities for developing and practising the skills expected in postgraduates from a leading law school.

TAUGHT PROGRAMMES STRUCTURE

Our programmes are specifically designed to bring about enquiring, analytical postgraduates who are resilient and fully prepared for a successful career. Our programmes have a core which includes foundational knowledge and research skills at the outset. This is followed by increased independence as skills develop and you become adept at your own research. We then offer a sector-leading variety of optional modules to choose from with research expertise within the School. In addition, you may be able to opt to study some modules outside the School – in a research powerhouse such as Leeds that amounts to a large and varied choice. This allows you to challenge yourself and question what you see around you. Inspiring enquiry is key.

Modules are assessed by a range of methods, usually centring around essays based on research, designed to ensure you have not only developed a sufficient knowledge base but that you can deliver the skills expected of a Leeds graduate. Every programme culminates in a major piece of research work in the final semester. The ability to manage a project over a period of months and structure, present and deliver a coherent and persuasive thesis is an essential aspect of your development.

PARTNERSHIPS

We strongly believe in creating an atmosphere which students enjoy - one in which you see your intellectual development as a partnership with academic staff. You will have a dedicated personal tutor throughout your programme who is committed to your academic progress. Additionally, we encourage you to have personal contact with all of your tutors. Whilst digital and remote methods of contact can be very useful, and are used, few things can inspire more than one to one contact with world leading experts. We have a very strong student support network.

 Inspiring minds

We are looking for individuals with a drive to learn and develop with the support of our globally recognised scholars. Our programmes and resources are specially designed for an enjoyable and successful learning experience.

—I My research is challenging and complex.

It is the root of my passion.

Alison Lu Xu
Research Student
The City
A powerful city in the heart of the UK, and with 115,000 students based here, Leeds is a great place to live and study. There is an eclectic and multicultural mix of entertainment with music, food, and nightlife for everyone. Home to theatres, museums, art galleries, the Northern Ballet and Opera North; it’s also one of the UK’s top shopping destinations.

As one of the greenest cities in Britain there are lots of large city parks for you to relax in, or you could visit the nearby Yorkshire Dales. Plus there is a significant sporting tradition with the international Test Match cricket ground at Headingley and major football and rugby teams.

Leeds is the second largest legal and financial centre in the UK. There’s over 20,000 people employed in legal services (some of the UK’s largest law firms have a significant presence here) and 13,000 in financial services – that’s more than Manchester, Glasgow or Birmingham.

A Friendly Campus
One of the largest single campus universities in the UK (98 acres) yet only a 10 minute walk from the city centre, we have a friendly and multi-cultural community on campus.

Our Students’ Union is the first in the country to win the Students’ Union Evaluation Initiative (SUEI) gold award twice. The Union boasts over 300 clubs and societies – get involved in anything from football to chess, wine tasting to skydiving, and dance to ‘a cappella’. The Postgraduate Society is one of the most popular and active, it is a great way of making friends and creating your own network. Plus, the Union is based in a fantastic building with shops, bars, restaurants, events and Wi-Fi.

Find out more: www.visitleeds.co.uk

A Home Away from Home
We guarantee university accommodation to all international students embarking on a postgraduate degree. UK/EU students are also welcome to apply although we cannot guarantee a place. We have a range of residences available.

Find out more: www.accommodation.leeds.ac.uk

Many students also choose to live in private accommodation. Unipol is an organisation which can assist you in finding a suitable home for your time in Leeds.

Find out more: www.unipol.org.uk

We are proud that our staff and students come from a variety of professional, academic and cultural backgrounds - bringing new and critical insight. Here are just a few examples of how studying with us connects you with the world and opens up international opportunities.

Improving Professional Practice
Professor Pinar Akman has delivered competition law training to authority officials, executives and practitioners across Europe. Meanwhile, Dr. Subhajit Basu has improved organisations’ knowledge of the latest findings in information technology law across America.

Find out more: www.visitleeds.co.uk

Gaining International Recognition
Professor Rita de la Feria has been recognised as one of the top 50 most influential individuals in the tax world in the latest two editions of the International Tax Review’s Global Tax 50. Professor Surya Subedi’s work in international law has also been recognised nationally and internationally by the award of high level state honours by Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II and his late Majesty King Birendra of Nepal.

Find out more: www.luu.org.uk

Influencing European Law and Policy
Many of our academics have worked on projects that have helped change or re-shape European law and policy. The Academic Network of European Disability Experts is providing policy-relevant research in relation to disability to the European Commission.

Find out more: www.accommodation.leeds.ac.uk

Involvement with International Organisations
Members of the Centre for Business Law and Practice have acted as consultants to the International Monetary Fund and the World Bank. Dr Peter Whelan is also a Non-Governmental Advisor to the International Competition Network and Dr Konstantinos Stylianou’s research in internet law has informed the Council of Europe and the European Commission.

International Research
Our Centre for Business Law and Practice is collaborating with the University of Wuhan, examining how to boost growth through strengthening investor and creditor protection in China. The Centre for Disability Studies and the Centre for Law and Social Justice are also working on a number of national and international projects relating to the UN Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities.

Find out more: www.luu.org.uk
A connected community

You will join a dynamic and supportive community of staff and students where we encourage each other to succeed. We are an international group covering over 40 countries, a fact which adds breadth to your studies and develops vital intercultural skills.
A connected community

One of the defining features of the School of Law is our commitment to support and maintain a vibrant and engaged community of academics, support staff, students, alumni and professional and academic partners.

A GLOBAL COMMUNITY

Each year we attract students from all over the UK and more than 40 countries worldwide. They make up a diverse and successful group who contribute significantly to the academic and social life of the School. Our academic and support staff reflect this commitment to internationalisation in their own backgrounds and in our curriculum.

We have thousands of alumni in positions of leadership in Leeds, the wider UK and internationally. Joining the School makes you a part of our large and successful community and in our admissions process we particularly look for people who want to play a part in ensuring its ongoing success. Working with international academic partners and welcoming guest lecturers and visitors from across the globe further enhances our community.

EXTERNAL ENGAGEMENT

The most successful law schools in the world are not only excellent places in which to study, they also engage with and are well connected to the wider world. Our School of Law is no exception.

We have very close connections with the legal profession and criminal justice agencies in the UK and internationally. These connections also help us ensure that our degrees are current and professionally relevant. The School has an Advisory Board headed by Lord Colin Low. Its members include several QCs and senior lawyers, senior civil servants and business people. This Board plays a significant role in supporting new developments in the School. Members of the School community are also consulted regularly by governments in this country and abroad, public institutions and international organisations such as the United Nations and European Union.

GUEST LECTURES AND EVENTS

Each year we have more than 100 external speaker events and the range of speakers is impressive. Throughout the academic year, we invite UK, EU and international professionals, public figures and academics to share their knowledge and experience with you.

In the last few years we have had speeches given by two Supreme Court Justices and several members of the higher judiciary. Leading figures from the world of criminology and criminal justice regularly give talks in the School and we frequently welcome leading public intellectuals. These events offer an excellent opportunity to hear some of the foremost thinkers of the day, to deepen your understanding of your discipline, to understand more about a particular career and to network.

“As an international student, this is my first time studying abroad. One thing that has helped me to adapt has been my personal tutor, who has helped me a lot since my induction week and has made me feel at home. I also really appreciate the facilities at Leeds and receive regular emails about School of Law news, activities, and academic seminars that I may be interested in.”

NITHIKON JIRATHITIKANKIT
MA SECURITY AND JUSTICE

A WORLDWIDE NETWORK OF ALUMNI

Our alumni, in the UK and internationally, are an important part of our community offering mentoring, support and other opportunities to existing students within the School.

When you graduate you will automatically be part of the Leeds Network community of 220,000 alumni in over 180 countries. You also become part of the Law School’s alumni group. We keep in regular contact with our alumni, holding special events around the world. We have, for example, recently held alumni events in Leeds, London, Hong Kong, Singapore, Malaysia and Saudi Arabia and each year aim to expand our global reach. These events are wonderful opportunities not only for us to update you on the progress we are making as a School but also for you to network with other alumni, and catch up with old friends.
Our research

Each of our postgraduate taught programmes is based on expertise within our research centres, which means you will benefit from the latest developments and have access to some of the leading thinkers in your subject. If you are looking to pursue a research programme, we will carefully match you to a supervisor within the relevant centre.
Our research centres

THE CENTRE FOR BUSINESS LAW AND PRACTICE
The Centre for Business Law and Practice is one of the largest centres for the study of business law outside London. It consists of 25 academic staff, including 11 professors, a large and diverse postgraduate student community and international visiting scholars. Our students are taught and supervised by recognised leaders in their fields of expertise. While the Centre is particularly well known for its established research and teaching expertise in corporate and financial law, and competition law, it has strengths in a broad range of business law related areas including regulation, tax, private international law, consumer law, and contract law. The Centre has a strong international profile in terms of its teaching, its research, and its international staff and students and is very outwardly engaged. Every year it hosts events and lectures involving national and international academics and policymakers. Our postgraduate students are encouraged to attend many of these events, which develop their knowledge of the law’s impact in the wider world.

THE CENTRE FOR CRIMINAL JUSTICE STUDIES
The Centre for Criminal Justice Studies is an interdisciplinary research institute located within the School of Law. It was established in 1987 to pursue research into criminal justice systems and criminological issues and has become recognised as one of the leading criminological centres of its genre with an established international profile and a range of international networks. Research strength is reflected both in high level impact on policy and a strong record of external grant capture; in the last five years Centre members have attracted in excess of £2 million external funding. The Centre fosters an active and flourishing multidisciplinary academic environment for teaching and research with currently 23 members of staff working in the Centre, including 6 professors. It organises a seminar programme and hosts national and international conferences, attracting international visitors and it has developed a cohesive and supportive research environment for both students and staff. Students learn and are supported in their own research in an environment that excels in the production of empirically rich, conceptually sophisticated and policy relevant research, with the opportunity to experience how research impacts on the wider world.

THE CENTRE FOR LAW AND SOCIAL JUSTICE
The Centre for Law and Social Justice supports scholars, activists, organisations and practitioners who are interested in understanding and engaging with questions about the existence of inequalities in wealth and social justice. The Centre’s work considers the extent to which law can address these inequalities and help ensure that resources are shared more equitably, and addresses the extent to which members of society have access to welfare provisions and access to justice according to their need, both in a legal and broader civil society sense. Those working within Law and Social Justice have established reputations across a range of areas including disability, health, access to justice, family relations, transgender rights, legal theory, reproductive rights, and human rights. The Centre currently has 25 members, with 8 professors, and students benefit from tuition delivered by experts, with international reputations, across the field. The Centre runs a full programme of research events and has an inclusive ethos encouraging and supporting students not only in their studies but in engagement with wider research events.

THE CENTRE FOR INNOVATION AND RESEARCH IN LEGAL EDUCATION
The Centre for Innovation and Research in Legal Education (CIRLE) acts as the School’s ‘think tank’, both driving and enabling best practice and innovation. The Centre aims to transform understandings of, and scholarship in, legal and criminal justice education and the points at which such disciplines intersect. The Centre explores the role that educational innovation can play in supporting the development of confident, critical and creative thinkers with an acute understanding of their role and responsibilities within a global community. The Centre has members from across the School leading a range of research projects which explore student wellbeing, how digital learning approaches can be utilised to produce more effective learning environments and the relationship between higher education and the professions. The Centre hosts a regular series of events and workshops which attract leading academics and members of the professions. Students are encouraged to play a full and active role in the work of the Centre.

The research conducted within our School is largely organised into four leading research centres/groups, whose staff deliver teaching and supervision to our postgraduate students. This means you will be taught or supervised by academics who are internationally renowned in the areas you choose to study. You can read more about our centres below or see page 9 to learn more about the global impact our research has.

FIND OUT MORE:
WWW.LAW.LEEDS.AC.UK/RESEARCH

POSTGRADUATE DEGREES
WWW.LAW.LEEDS.AC.UK/POSTGRADUATES
Our programmes

Postgraduate degrees allow you to deepen your knowledge of a subject, enhance your career opportunities or take a new direction. They can also provide a great basis for a research degree should you wish to explore your subject further.
— It’s not just about excellent academic tuition.

We believe your experience should be a personal journey of discovery.

We want your time studying at postgraduate level to be an inspiring, life-enhancing, and fun experience. Our degree programmes are intended to prepare you for the many opportunities that may come your way in the future, whatever your career ambitions. Excellent academic tuition and support are, of course, a critical part of this but a life changing postgraduate experience needs to be more than that and this is what we aim to provide for all our students.

Being a postgraduate student at the School of Law has many benefits. There are opportunities for exploring, with world-leading scholars, any number of academic issues that interest you. Most importantly, our programmes offer you the opportunity to consider issues from a wide variety of global perspectives. The small group teaching we provide will challenge you but also offer you the opportunity to test your ideas with your fellow students and my colleagues. Your research skills will be enhanced through a research project where you can discuss and develop your own ideas with academic staff through individual supervision.

While intellectual engagement is the primary purpose of your time with us, we also believe your experience should go beyond the purely academic. It should be a personal journey of discovery. We provide a vibrant, diverse and supportive community for all our students, where you can make new and lasting friendships from across the world. Our Postgraduate Society runs a series of events and outings where you can get to know other students, relax together and have the opportunity to explore not only the surrounding area, but UK attractions further afield. You will also meet with staff, not only at teaching and research events, but also in the relaxed atmosphere of social gatherings.

As a School we also understand that undertaking further study beyond an undergraduate degree is challenging, both intellectually and personally. We therefore provide you with the appropriate support, at whatever stage of your programme. There is always someone to talk to and spend time with. We want all our students to excel and achieve their full potential.

We start with a range of induction events to help you find your feet, and provide pastoral care through the year where wanted or needed. There is nothing more rewarding for us than seeing students at graduation, happy in the knowledge that they have successfully completed their postgraduate journey.

Learning is rewarding, no more so than at postgraduate level, but undertaking a postgraduate qualification is more than that. Studying at the School of Law gives you a chance to develop knowledge that will be relevant in all walks of life, in friendly and supportive surroundings. We believe that feeling welcome and happy brings out the best in everyone. Come and study with us, and give yourself the chance to not only develop intellectually, but to also have a rewarding and enjoyable year.

Dr Sarah Brown
Taught Postgraduate Tutor
The financial crisis dealt a heavy blow to businesses and economies around the world. This programme provides an insight into how the law responds to the many issues that have been identified as contributing to this event, looking not just at insolvency frameworks and banking regulation, but how capital markets work and how investments are made. The knowledge and skills you develop will enable you to think more widely about these issues and appreciate and measure how law can respond to global banking and financial phenomena.

COMPULSORY MODULES

- Insolvency Law considers the history of insolvency and explores insolvency in today's world, its meaning and consequences. You investigate the theory, aims, purposes and principles that underpin the law, and examine the options available to insolvents, and the roles of those administering insolvent administrations.

- International Banking Law: The Regulatory Framework will expand your understanding of the way banks operate, and enable you to examine the role of the legal process in the regulation of banks, both on a national and an international basis.

- Postgraduate Legal Research Skills prepares you for legal research required for seminar preparation, coursework assignments and for writing dissertations in law. The module focuses on instilling the fundamental research skills that you need to undertake any type of legal research.

- Dissertation will enable you to develop your research and writing skills with reference to a project in banking law or related area. You will develop an individual research agenda and engage in independent study, in consultation with an academic member of staff.

OPTIONAL MODULES

You will choose four modules from a wide-ranging list including:

- Corporate Finance and Securities Law
- International Corporate Rescue
- International Economic Law
- International Law of Credit and Security
- International Trade Finance Law
- The International Law of Foreign Investment.

Modules subject to change.

CAREERS

This programme will equip you to pursue a career, whether as adviser or participant in the global business market. Our graduates pursue careers in business, legal practice, or public service, where success is built on the ability to understand, analyse and respond to developments in international business law. Graduate roles within the legal profession have included compliance managers, company secretaries and audit managers.

ENTRY REQUIREMENTS

An upper second class honours degree in law, banking, finance, economics, business, a related degree or non-UK equivalent. If English is not your first language you will also need an English language qualification, for example IELTS 6.5 with at least 6.0 in all components or another English language qualification accepted by the University.

Our professors are so enthusiastic about the subjects they teach and student feedback and interaction is always welcomed positively. The atmosphere is electric and makes you want to come into University every day.”

ROCHELLE D. NAZARETH

LLM INTERNATIONAL BANKING AND FINANCE LAW

ENTRY REQUIREMENTS

An upper second class honours degree in law, banking, finance, economics, business, a related degree or non-UK equivalent. If English is not your first language you will also need an English language qualification, for example IELTS 6.5 with at least 6.0 in all components or another English language qualification accepted by the University.

COMPULSORY MODULES

- Insolvency Law
- International Banking Law: The Regulatory Framework
- Postgraduate Legal Research Skills
- Dissertation

OPTIONAL MODULES

You will choose seven modules from a wide-ranging list including:

- Alternative Dispute Resolution
- Central Issues in Arbitration
- Conflict of Laws in Business Transactions
- Corporate Finance and Securities Law
- Corporate Social Responsibility
- Corporate Law
- Cyberlaw: Regulation of Cyberspace
- International Competition Law
- International E-Commerce Law
- International Sales Law
- International Trade Finance Law
- Trade Marks, Geographical Indications, Designs and Trade Secrets
- World Trade Organisation Law.

Modules subject to change.
SCHOOL OF LAW

MSc Law and Finance

This innovative programme meets the growing demand for professionals with financial and legal expertise by combining theory and practice. It is one of the very few specialised law and finance postgraduate courses in the UK. Taught by experts in both the School of Law and Leeds University Business School, you will develop knowledge and skills in relation to the law, economics and finance governing international law and finance both in the UK, Europe and at a global level. Our professional activities and advanced facilities are designed to develop your practical skills, for example, you will undertake a one-week trading simulation delivered in partnership with Amplify Trading.

ENTRY REQUIREMENTS
An upper second class degree in law or a relevant business degree (such as accounting, finance, economics or mathematics) or non-UK equivalent. If English is not your first language you will also need an English language qualification, for example IELTS 6.5 with at least 6.0 in all components or another English language qualification accepted by the University.

CAREERS
Graduates with masters level knowledge in both the legal and financial fields possess a rare skillset, which is highly sought after by employers. In addition to the possibility of pursuing further research and/or doctoral study, the course equips you to pursue a range of careers. In particular, work in financial institutions; banks; the financial services industry; government; international organisations; non-governmental organisations (NGOs); and international media or journalism.

COMPULSORY MODULES
Corporate Finance and Securities Law

Principles of International Financial Law

Provides an introduction to principles of financial law focusing on international (and EU) regulatory policy and the regulation of different financial sectors in the UK, including banking, securities and retail investment. Quantitative Methods examines quantitative methods, their potential and pitfalls and provides an understanding of descriptive statistics and ways to present data.

Financial Reporting and Analysis

Covers both financial accounting and management accounting. Corporate Finance draws on finance theory to consider financial markets, market efficiency, principles of strategic management, corporate capital structure and dividend policy, derivative markets, commodities and currencies.

The Dissertation (in Law or Finance) will enable you to develop your research and writing skills with reference to a project in law or finance. You will develop an individual research agenda and engage in independent study, in consultation with an academic member of staff.

Optional modules
You will choose three modules from the list below:

• Central Issues in Arbitration
• Corporate Law
• Corporate Governance
• Corporate Social Responsibility
• Forensic Accounting and Finance
• International Banking Law
• Capital Markets and Loans
• International Competition Law
• International Law of Credit and Security
• International Trade Finance Law.

Modules subject to change.

International Corporate Governance

Provides a comprehensive study of the role of corporate governance in the world economy, including strategies, systems and theories that underpin corporate governance in global commerce and around the world.

Postgraduate Legal Research Skills

Prepares you for legal research required for seminar preparation, coursework assignments and for writing dissertations in law. The module focuses on installing the fundamental research skills that you need to undertake any type of legal research.

The Dissertation will enable you to develop your research and writing skills with reference to a project in corporate law or related area. You will develop an individual research agenda and engage in independent study, in consultation with an academic member of staff.

Optional modules
You will choose four modules from a wide-ranging list including:

• Alternative Dispute Resolution
• Central Issues in Arbitration
• Conflict of Laws in Business Transactions
• Corporate Social Responsibility
• International Competition Law
• International Corporate Rescue
• International Law of Credit and Security
• World Trade Organisation Law.

Modules subject to change.

Academic staff are friendly and approachable, and are always happy to clarify anything or provide advice and support. Our postgraduate tutor has been really supportive and has made us feel part of a big family of students.”

MELISA MARTINEZ DELGADO
LLM INTERNATIONAL CORPORATE LAW
You will be able to pursue careers where success is built upon the ability to understand, analyse and respond to developments in international trade law. Graduates have secured employment as lawyers, legal managers and international trade consultants.

COMPULSORY MODULES

- International Economic Law provides a comprehensive and critical understanding of the main framework of international law governing international economic relations between states.
- International Law of Foreign Investment examines the significance of bilateral investment treaties, regional trade and investment agreements and bilateral free trade agreements. This includes an examination of recent trends both in State practice and jurisprudence.
- World Trade Organisation Law considers and evaluates some of the main topics within the World Trade Organisation (WTO)/General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade regime from the perspectives of both developed and developing countries. This will include investigation of the workings of the WTO, including its social, political and economic dimensions.
- The Dissertation will enable you to develop your research and writing skills with reference to a project in international trade law or related area. You will develop an individual research agenda and engage in independent study, in consultation with an academic member of staff.

OPTIONAL MODULES

You will choose four modules from a wide-ranging list including:

- Corporate Social Responsibility
- Environmental Law – International
- Permit-based – Control of Pollution
- International Competition Law
- International E-Commerce Law
- International Law of Credit and Security
- International Sales Law
- International Trade Finance Law
- Trade Marks, Geographical Indications, Designs and Trade Secrets.

ENTRY REQUIREMENTS

An upper second class honours degree in law, finance, economics or business, a related degree or non-UK equivalent. If English is not your first language you will also need an English language qualification, for example IELTS 6.5 with at least 6.0 in all components or another English language qualification accepted by the University.

This programme is for any student interested in the public and private aspects of law at international level. International issues are integral to the programme, and provide the basis for a deep understanding of legal questions that affect the world, whether in relation to trade, economics, investment or business more widely. The study of contemporary state practice in relation to free trade and investment, particularly pertaining to developing nations, affords knowledge that will be invaluable in your chosen career.

CAREERS

You will be able to pursue careers where success is built upon the ability to understand, analyse and respond to developments in international trade law. Graduates have secured employment as lawyers, legal managers and international trade consultants.

COMPULSORY MODULES

- International Economic Law provides a comprehensive and critical understanding of the main framework of international law governing international economic relations between states.
- International Law of Foreign Investment examines the significance of bilateral investment treaties, regional trade and investment agreements and bilateral free trade agreements. This includes an examination of recent trends both in State practice and jurisprudence.
- World Trade Organisation Law considers and evaluates some of the main topics within the World Trade Organisation (WTO)/General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade regime from the perspectives of both developed and developing countries. This will include investigation of the workings of the WTO, including its social, political and economic dimensions.
- The Dissertation will enable you to develop your research and writing skills with reference to a project in international trade law or related area. You will develop an individual research agenda and engage in independent study, in consultation with an academic member of staff.

ENTRY REQUIREMENTS

An upper second class honours degree in law, finance, economics or business, a related degree or non-UK equivalent. If English is not your first language you will also need an English language qualification, for example IELTS 6.5 with at least 6.0 in all components or another English language qualification accepted by the University.

This programme is for any student interested in the public and private aspects of law at international level. International issues are integral to the programme, and provide the basis for a deep understanding of legal questions that affect the world, whether in relation to trade, economics, investment or business more widely. The study of contemporary state practice in relation to free trade and investment, particularly pertaining to developing nations, affords knowledge that will be invaluable in your chosen career.

CAREERS

You will be able to pursue careers where success is built upon the ability to understand, analyse and respond to developments in international trade law. Graduates have secured employment as lawyers, legal managers and international trade consultants.

COMPULSORY MODULES

- International Economic Law provides a comprehensive and critical understanding of the main framework of international law governing international economic relations between states.
- International Law of Foreign Investment examines the significance of bilateral investment treaties, regional trade and investment agreements and bilateral free trade agreements. This includes an examination of recent trends both in State practice and jurisprudence.
- World Trade Organisation Law considers and evaluates some of the main topics within the World Trade Organisation (WTO)/General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade regime from the perspectives of both developed and developing countries. This will include investigation of the workings of the WTO, including its social, political and economic dimensions.
- The Dissertation will enable you to develop your research and writing skills with reference to a project in international trade law or related area. You will develop an individual research agenda and engage in independent study, in consultation with an academic member of staff.

ENTRY REQUIREMENTS

An upper second class honours degree in law, finance, economics or business, a related degree or non-UK equivalent. If English is not your first language you will also need an English language qualification, for example IELTS 6.5 with at least 6.0 in all components or another English language qualification accepted by the University.

This programme is for any student interested in the public and private aspects of law at international level. International issues are integral to the programme, and provide the basis for a deep understanding of legal questions that affect the world, whether in relation to trade, economics, investment or business more widely. The study of contemporary state practice in relation to free trade and investment, particularly pertaining to developing nations, affords knowledge that will be invaluable in your chosen career.
CAREERS
LLM Intellectual Property Law will enable you to embark upon a career in the legal profession, in knowledge-intensive commercial sectors, and in other occupations where in-depth understanding of intellectual property is economically or strategically important, such as government service and in intergovernmental and non-governmental organisations.

COMPULSORY MODULES
Copyright Law provides you with a thorough grounding in the law of copyright. You will cover the key principles of copyright, and major cases that helped to shape the modern law of this intellectual property right and its convergence towards harmonised international standards of protection.

Patent Law provides you with a thorough grounding in the law of patents. You will cover the key principles of patents, and major cases that helped to shape the modern law of this intellectual property right and its convergence towards harmonised international standards of protection.

Postgraduate Legal Research Skills prepares you for legal research required for seminar preparation, coursework assignments and for writing dissertations in law. The module focuses on instilling the fundamental research skills that you need to undertake any type of legal research.

Trade Marks, Geographical Indications, Designs and Trade Secrets covers the key principles of trade marks, geographical indications, designs and trade secrets. You will also consider the economic and philosophical rationales behind these rights and investigate why they are so controversial in today’s globalised economy.

Entry Requirements
An upper second class honours degree in law or non-UK equivalent. Applicants with good degrees in other subjects will be considered. If English is not your first language you will also need an English language qualification, for example IELTS 6.5 with at least 6.0 in all components or another English language qualification accepted by the University.

Optional Modules
You will also choose four modules from a wide-ranging list including:
- Contemporary Issues in Intellectual Property: Health, Food and Biotechnology
- Contemporary Issues in Intellectual Property: Genetic Resources
- Cyberlaw: Regulation of Cyberspace
- Digital Environment: Law, Technologies and Human Rights
- Intellectual Property Management
- International E-Commerce Law
- International Governance of Intellectual Property.

Optional Modules subject to change.

Entry Requirements
An upper second class honours degree in law or non-UK equivalent. Applicants with good degrees in other subjects will be considered. If English is not your first language you will also need an English language qualification, for example IELTS 6.5 with at least 6.0 in all components or another English language qualification accepted by the University.

Postgraduate Legal Research Skills prepares you for legal research required for seminar preparation, coursework assignments and for writing dissertations in law. The module focuses on instilling the fundamental research skills that you need to undertake any type of legal research.

Trade Marks, Geographical Indications, Designs and Trade Secrets covers the key principles of trade marks, geographical indications, designs and trade secrets. You will also consider the economic and philosophical rationales behind these rights and investigate why they are so controversial in today’s globalised economy.

The Dissertation will enable you to develop your research and writing skills with reference to a project in intellectual property or related area. You will develop an individual research agenda and engage in independent study, in consultation with an academic member of staff.

Optional Modules subject to change.
LLM International Law

International law is a dynamic subject which has to respond to problems in the real world. It directly affects states but is increasingly a matter of concern for public and private international and national organisations and individuals. Globalisation affects almost every part of our lives; given contemporary and future global problems – for example, protecting human rights and security and the conservation of resources – the significance of international law is growing in a multipolar world. This programme will enhance your understanding and challenge preconceptions of the complex legal and political nature of international law-making and governance and explore the often competing concepts that infuse the subject.

ENTRY REQUIREMENTS

An upper second class honours degree in law, or a relevant social science, or non-UK equivalent. If English is not your first language you will also need an English language qualification, for example IELTS 6.5 with at least 6.0 in all components or another English language qualification accepted by the University.

CAREERS

The skills and knowledge you acquire will not only allow you to explore a career in globally important organisations whether governmental, for profit, or NGO, but will provide you with an advantage in any career in the law.

COMPULSORY MODULES

Global Governance Through Law explores the globalisation of governance and examines global legal pluralism, the use of force and the Security Council, judicial governance through international courts, food security and climate change as well as the International Criminal Court.

Postgraduate Legal Research Skills prepares you for legal research required for seminar preparation, coursework assignments and for writing dissertations in law. The module focuses on instilling the fundamental research skills that you need to undertake any type of legal research.

The Dissertation will enable you to develop your research and writing skills with reference to a project in international law or related area. You will develop an individual research agenda and engage in independent study, in consultation with an academic member of staff.

OPTIONAL MODULES

You will also choose a number of modules from a wide-ranging list including:

- Alternative Dispute Resolution
- European Human Rights
- International Corporate Rescue
- International Economic Law
- Human Rights and Disabled People 1
- Human Rights and Disabled People 2
- World Trade Organisation Law.

Modules subject to change.

My experience in the University of Leeds has been really great. There has been a sense of excitement in every seminar and lecture which has kept me inspired throughout the course. My classes have been truly enthralling and bring together a mix of international course mates."

GHANASHYAM KHADKA
LLM INTERNATIONAL HUMAN RIGHTS LAW

LLM International Human Rights Law

This LLM will provide you with practical tools to close the gap between the rhetoric of human rights and the lived reality of people on the ground globally. The course provides introductions to regional and international systems of human rights. You will have the authority to speak on pressing issues of contemporary social justice topics such as torture, media freedoms, terrorism and inequality. Uniquely, you will have the opportunity to benefit from the expertise of our Disability Law Hub, the largest grouping of scholars focused on disability and mental health in Europe.

ENTRY REQUIREMENTS

An upper second class honours degree in law, or a relevant social science, or non-UK equivalent. If English is not your first language you will also need an English language qualification, for example IELTS 6.5 with at least 6.0 in all components or another English language qualification accepted by the University.

CAREERS

You will benefit from human rights practitioners in the School who are experienced in guiding students towards careers in the public sector, human rights NGOs and international Civil Service.

COMPULSORY MODULES

Postgraduate Legal Research Skills prepares you for legal research required for seminar preparation, coursework assignments and for writing dissertations in law. The module focuses on instilling the fundamental research skills that you need to undertake any type of legal research.

The Dissertation will enable you to develop your research and writing skills with reference to a project in international and/or European human rights law or related area. You will develop an individual research agenda and engage in independent study, in consultation with an academic member of staff.

In addition to the Dissertation and Postgraduate Legal Research Skills module, you will choose at least two modules from the following:

- International Human Rights Law
- European Human Rights
- Human Rights and Disabled People
- Global Human Rights Advocacy.

OPTIONAL MODULES

You will also choose a number of modules from a wide-ranging list including:

- Global Governance Through Law
- Globalisation and Crime
- World Trade Organisation Law

Modules subject to change.

With such a diverse array of optional modules on the programme, no two subjects have been the same. This has really enhanced my academic insight, allowing me to make links between different modules and develop a broad understanding of issues in the field."

LUKE ROBINSON
LLM INTERNATIONAL LAW

SHANA SHAMA KHADDA
LLM INTERNATIONAL HUMAN RIGHTS LAW
ENTRY REQUIREMENTS
An upper second class honours degree in law, sociology, social policy, criminology, politics, international relations or related social science discipline, or non-UK equivalent. If English is not your first language you will also need an English language qualification, for example IELTS 6.5 with at least 6.0 in all components or another English language qualification accepted by the University.

This programme will appeal to students who wish to explore security and justice from an interdisciplinary perspective. It draws upon expertise from across the fields of criminology, international relations, law, politics, and sociology to engage with some of the most pressing issues confronting contemporary societies. You will gain in-depth understanding of how security and justice intersect, as well as how they are experienced at the local, national and transnational levels. You will gain skills and knowledge that inform a wide appreciation of security and justice, as well as receiving training in research methods drawn from across a range of disciplines. The truly interdisciplinary nature of the syllabus will provide you with valuable tools to pursue a wide range of career paths relevant to security and justice.

CAREERS
Whether in the fields of criminal justice, global governance, social policy, international security, international relations or academia, the ability to think broadly and to connect complex issues will equip you well for the future.

The programme will also equip you with the skills and knowledge to enter into further academic research and to pursue professional careers in the Civil Service, media and publishing, teaching and training, policy, international agencies and the fields of security and policing.

COMPULSORY MODULES
Security and Justice addresses definitions of security and justice and examines the social, political, legal and policy responses that sustain the contemporary global and social “order”. The module enables an analytical and empirically informed treatment of the linkages between issues of security and justice at both the national and international level.

Researching Crime, Security and Justice provides detailed knowledge and critical awareness of social research. The module addresses qualitative and quantitative research skills needed to conduct and understand security and justice research.

The Security and Justice Dissertation will enable you to develop your research and writing skills with reference to a project in security and justice or related area. You will develop an individual research agenda and engage in independent study, in consultation with an academic member of staff.

New Frontiers of Security, Conflict and Justice draws upon cross-disciplinary expertise from within law, criminology, politics and international studies, examining the latest research developments in the fields of security, conflict and justice and their points of intersection.

OPTIONAL MODULES
You will also choose a number of modules from a wide-ranging list including:

From Law:
• Crime, Justice and Social Order
• Criminal Justice Processes
• Globalisation and Crime
• Global Governance Through Law
• International Corporate Governance
• International Human Rights.

From Politics and International Studies:
• Critical Security Studies
• Gender, Globalisation and Development
• Global Justice
• The Politics of the Israel-Palestine Conflict.

From Sociology and Social Policy:
• Power, Critique and Global Transformations
• Understanding Society and Culture.

Modules subject to change.

— The interdisciplinary nature of the programme has broadened my understanding.

It’s given me new perspectives.

Nitikon Jirathitkankit
MA Security and Justice
The Dissertation will enable you to develop your research, writing and critical reasoning skills with reference to a suitable topic of your choice in criminal justice or criminology. In previous years, students have been able to conduct small-scale research projects in collaboration with local criminal justice agencies. Your work will be supervised by a member of academic staff.

OPTIONAL MODULES
You will also choose a number of modules from a wide-ranging list including:

- Central Issues in Criminal Law
- Globalisation and Crime
- Global Justice
- International Human Rights
- Policing I (the nature of contemporary policing)
- Policing II (accountability of policing)
- Security and Justice
- Theorising Gender I
- Understanding Society and Culture
- Power, Critique and Global Transformations
- Human Rights and Disabled People.

Researching Crime, Security and Justice provides detailed knowledge and critical awareness of social research. The module examines the intricate relationships between theory, criminological research and criminal justice practice, and considers the ways in which these relationships can be exploited for the benefit of society.

Modules subject to change.

CAREERS
Former students are now enjoying career success in a wide range of fields, in the UK and abroad, in the public, private and voluntary sectors and also academia.

MSc Criminal Justice and Criminology

This programme explores the complex and highly political relationship between the perceived causes of, and responses to, anti-social and criminal behaviour. Compulsory modules afford advanced-level study of contemporary criminological theory, a critical knowledge of criminal justice practice, and a detailed understanding of qualitative and quantitative research methods. The wide choice of optional modules allows you to tailor the programme to your particular interests. The programme is delivered by academics from the Centre for Criminal Justice Studies, the impact of whose work is recognised nationally and internationally.
LLB Law

(2 YEAR GRADUATE PROGRAMME)

UCAS CODE: M101

ENTRY REQUIREMENTS
An upper second honours degree, or equivalent, in a non-law subject. If English is not your first language you will also need an English language qualification, for example IELTS 6.5 with at least 6.0 in all components or another English language qualification accepted by the University.

OVERVIEW
This is a Qualifying Law Degree which, if taken after an undergraduate degree in another subject, enables you to progress directly to the vocational stage of legal education should you wish to qualify as a solicitor or barrister in England and Wales. It is also recognised in a number of other jurisdictions. The course attracts students from the UK and abroad, from countries such as Canada, Malaysia, Hong Kong, Cyprus, Pakistan and the United States. This generates a wealth of experience and brings a range of views to topical discussions. The course covers the same foundational subjects as the 3 year LLB course, and offers some opportunity for study of options.

CAREERS
The LLB Law (graduate programme) provides you the opportunity to qualify as a lawyer in England and Wales and gain transferable skills which are recognised in a number of jurisdictions. International graduates wishing to practice in their home country may need to attain some further country specific training.

YEAR 1
Compulsory modules
- Contract Law
- Foundations of Law
- Constitutional and Administrative Law
- Criminal Law.

YEAR 2
Compulsory modules
- European Union Law
- Equity and Trusts
- Land Law
- Torts.

Optional modules
You will choose between two and four optional modules from a specialist list to complete your year. These include:
- Company Law
- Family Law
- Evidence
- International Law.

Modules subject to change.

ENTRY REQUIREMENTS
An upper second honours degree, or equivalent, in a non-law subject. If English is not your first language you will also need an English language qualification, for example IELTS 6.5 with at least 6.0 in all components or another English language qualification accepted by the University.

OVERVIEW
This is a Qualifying Law Degree which, if taken after an undergraduate degree in another subject, enables you to progress directly to the vocational stage of legal education should you wish to qualify as a solicitor or barrister in England and Wales. It is also recognised in a number of other jurisdictions. The course attracts students from the UK and abroad, from countries such as Canada, Malaysia, Hong Kong, Cyprus, Pakistan and the United States. This generates a wealth of experience and brings a range of views to topical discussions. The course covers the same foundational subjects as the 3 year LLB course, and offers some opportunity for study of options.

CAREERS
The LLB Law (graduate programme) provides you the opportunity to qualify as a lawyer in England and Wales and gain transferable skills which are recognised in a number of jurisdictions. International graduates wishing to practice in their home country may need to attain some further country specific training.

YEAR 1
Compulsory modules
- Contract Law
- Foundations of Law
- Constitutional and Administrative Law
- Criminal Law.

YEAR 2
Compulsory modules
- European Union Law
- Equity and Trusts
- Land Law
- Torts.

Optional modules
You will choose between two and four optional modules from a specialist list to complete your year. These include:
- Company Law
- Family Law
- Evidence
- International Law.

Modules subject to change.

ENTRY REQUIREMENTS
An upper second honours degree, or equivalent, in a non-law subject. If English is not your first language you will also need an English language qualification, for example IELTS 6.5 with at least 6.0 in all components or another English language qualification accepted by the University.

OVERVIEW
This is a Qualifying Law Degree which, if taken after an undergraduate degree in another subject, enables you to progress directly to the vocational stage of legal education should you wish to qualify as a solicitor or barrister in England and Wales. It is also recognised in a number of other jurisdictions. The course attracts students from the UK and abroad, from countries such as Canada, Malaysia, Hong Kong, Cyprus, Pakistan and the United States. This generates a wealth of experience and brings a range of views to topical discussions. The course covers the same foundational subjects as the 3 year LLB course, and offers some opportunity for study of options.

CAREERS
The LLB Law (graduate programme) provides you the opportunity to qualify as a lawyer in England and Wales and gain transferable skills which are recognised in a number of jurisdictions. International graduates wishing to practice in their home country may need to attain some further country specific training.

YEAR 1
Compulsory modules
- Contract Law
- Foundations of Law
- Constitutional and Administrative Law
- Criminal Law.

YEAR 2
Compulsory modules
- European Union Law
- Equity and Trusts
- Land Law
- Torts.

Optional modules
You will choose between two and four optional modules from a specialist list to complete your year. These include:
- Company Law
- Family Law
- Evidence
- International Law.

Modules subject to change.

ENTRY REQUIREMENTS
An upper second honours degree, or equivalent, in a non-law subject. If English is not your first language you will also need an English language qualification, for example IELTS 6.5 with at least 6.0 in all components or another English language qualification accepted by the University.

OVERVIEW
This is a Qualifying Law Degree which, if taken after an undergraduate degree in another subject, enables you to progress directly to the vocational stage of legal education should you wish to qualify as a solicitor or barrister in England and Wales. It is also recognised in a number of other jurisdictions. The course attracts students from the UK and abroad, from countries such as Canada, Malaysia, Hong Kong, Cyprus, Pakistan and the United States. This generates a wealth of experience and brings a range of views to topical discussions. The course covers the same foundational subjects as the 3 year LLB course, and offers some opportunity for study of options.

CAREERS
The LLB Law (graduate programme) provides you the opportunity to qualify as a lawyer in England and Wales and gain transferable skills which are recognised in a number of jurisdictions. International graduates wishing to practice in their home country may need to attain some further country specific training.

YEAR 1
Compulsory modules
- Contract Law
- Foundations of Law
- Constitutional and Administrative Law
- Criminal Law.

YEAR 2
Compulsory modules
- European Union Law
- Equity and Trusts
- Land Law
- Torts.

Optional modules
You will choose between two and four optional modules from a specialist list to complete your year. These include:
- Company Law
- Family Law
- Evidence
- International Law.

Modules subject to change.

ENTRY REQUIREMENTS
An upper second honours degree, or equivalent, in a non-law subject. If English is not your first language you will also need an English language qualification, for example IELTS 6.5 with at least 6.0 in all components or another English language qualification accepted by the University.

OVERVIEW
This is a Qualifying Law Degree which, if taken after an undergraduate degree in another subject, enables you to progress directly to the vocational stage of legal education should you wish to qualify as a solicitor or barrister in England and Wales. It is also recognised in a number of other jurisdictions. The course attracts students from the UK and abroad, from countries such as Canada, Malaysia, Hong Kong, Cyprus, Pakistan and the United States. This generates a wealth of experience and brings a range of views to topical discussions. The course covers the same foundational subjects as the 3 year LLB course, and offers some opportunity for study of options.

CAREERS
The LLB Law (graduate programme) provides you the opportunity to qualify as a lawyer in England and Wales and gain transferable skills which are recognised in a number of jurisdictions. International graduates wishing to practice in their home country may need to attain some further country specific training.

YEAR 1
Compulsory modules
- Contract Law
- Foundations of Law
- Constitutional and Administrative Law
- Criminal Law.

YEAR 2
Compulsory modules
- European Union Law
- Equity and Trusts
- Land Law
- Torts.

Optional modules
You will choose between two and four optional modules from a specialist list to complete your year. These include:
- Company Law
- Family Law
- Evidence
- International Law.

Modules subject to change.
Postgraduate research degrees

Our research opportunities are hosted within four research centres/groups, each of which has a successful and thriving research community. We currently have over 100 registered postgraduate research students and an excellent record of completed research degrees.

RESEARCH COMMUNITY AND ENVIRONMENT
By studying for a research degree within the School of Law, you will become a key member of this academic research community, experiencing a supportive, stimulating and challenging research environment which will enable you to pursue your interests and achieve your potential.

Some of the wider communities you will also benefit from being part of include:

• Leeds Social Sciences Institute (LSSI)
The LSSI is a large, vibrant research institute that works to support and enhance the Social Sciences at Leeds. It fosters interdisciplinary and international research collaborations, promotes relations with external partners in the public, private and third sectors and builds capacity through the provision of training and skills development for the next generation of research leaders.

  FIND OUT MORE:
  www.lssi.leeds.ac.uk

• ESRC-funded White Rose Social Sciences Doctoral Training Partnership (WRDTP)
Being part of the WRDTP means that each year we are able to offer fully-funded ESRC studentships in socio-legal studies or criminology. It also means our postgraduate researchers are able to benefit from a wide range of training and development opportunities hosted by the WRDTP.

  FIND OUT MORE:
  www.whiterose.ac.uk

• AHRC-funded White Rose College of Arts and Humanities
We are also part of the White Rose College of Arts and Humanities, which is an AHRC-funded Doctoral Training Partnership (DTP) of the universities of Leeds, Sheffield and York. This means that each year we can offer fully-funded studentships in legal and criminological studies. Membership also opens wider networking and training opportunities for our postgraduate researchers.

  FIND OUT MORE:
  www.wrcah.ac.uk

• ESRC-funded White Rose Social Sciences Doctoral Training Partnership (WRDTP)
Being part of the WRDTP means that each year we are able to offer fully-funded ESRC studentships in socio-legal studies or criminology. It also means our postgraduate researchers are able to benefit from a wide range of training and development opportunities hosted by the WRDTP.

  FIND OUT MORE:
  www.whiterose.ac.uk

RESEARCH TRAINING AND DEVELOPMENT
You will be provided with high-quality supervision by two academics who are trained and experienced supervisors as well as experts in the field of research. You will benefit from formal training in research methods and be encouraged to take an active part in your centre’s activities including attending seminars and conferences, as well as undergraduate teaching. The University also runs an extensive programme of optional workshops which you can access as required.

  FIND OUT MORE:
  www.leeds.ac.uk/rtd

DEGREE SCHEMES
• MA by Research 12 months full-time or 24 months part-time
• Doctor of Philosophy (PhD) three years full-time or five years part-time.

The main distinction between these two research degrees lies in the length of time devoted to earning the degrees, the ambition and the scope of the work undertaken and the extent of the research training that you benefit from.

ENTRY REQUIREMENTS
The entry requirements for these schemes are that you must normally possess an upper second class honours degree or non-UK equivalent. Applicants with professional qualifications or substantial professional experience are also encouraged to apply. In addition, PhD applicants are also usually required to hold a masters level qualification, with a merit grade.

For both degree schemes, if English is not your first language you will also need an English language qualification, for example IELTS 6.5 with at least 6.5 in listening and reading and at least 6.0 in writing and speaking.

HOW TO APPLY
The majority of our research students begin in October and we encourage all students to start either in October or February. It is best to apply before mid-July should you wish to begin in October and to allow at least three months between application and start date at other months during the year. Our decision is based on your research proposal, the potential fit between your topic and our expertise, supervisor’s interest, referees’ reports, degree results, School resources and if required, an interview.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION ON HOW TO APPLY:
www.law.leeds.ac.uk/postgraduates

OR YOU CAN EMAIL:
lawpgadm@leeds.ac.uk

Studying for my PhD has been the most fascinating and intellectually stimulating experience of my life, and has brought with it so many opportunities. Grab them, enjoy them – and make the most of them!”

SEAN BUTCHER
PHD
Tuition Fees at Leeds
Postgraduate tuition fees vary by programme. For full information on UK/EU and international tuition fees for 2018 entry please visit our website.

FIND OUT MORE: www.law.leeds.ac.uk/postgraduates

Funding
Postgraduate study is a major investment in your future. Some funding is available each year, an indication of which is below, but please check the websites for the latest and most complete information.

Alumni Bursary
The Alumni Postgraduate Bursary is available to former University of Leeds students. Those who qualify are eligible for a 10 percent tuition fee bursary. The alumni bursary can be awarded in conjunction with other University of Leeds scholarships and awards as the 10 percent bursary is calculated based on the net fee remaining.

University of Leeds Scholarships
The University also has a number of scholarships and is able to provide full and partial awards to UK/EU and international students.

FIND OUT MORE: www.scholarships.leeds.ac.uk

ESRC Studentships
ESRC studentships are yet to be confirmed for 2018. Please check our website for the latest information.

FIND OUT MORE: www.law.leeds.ac.uk/postgraduates/taught-postgraduates/fees-and-funding

AHRC Studentships
The School offers a number of AHRC-funded PhD opportunities. We encourage applications in doctrinal, theoretical, empirical, or comparative research studies that are focused on the content or procedures of the law.

FIND OUT MORE: www.law.leeds.ac.uk/postgraduates/research-postgraduates/fees-and-funding

Liberty Scholarships
A number of Liberty Scholarships are available to UK/EU and international students of high academic quality, studying any of our postgraduate taught programmes.

FIND OUT MORE: www.law.leeds.ac.uk/postgraduates/taught-postgraduates/fees-and-funding

How to Apply
All taught programmes begin in September. The deadlines for making an application are 30 June for international students and 31 July for students who do not require a visa.

FURTHER INFORMATION ON HOW TO APPLY CAN BE FOUND AT: www.law.leeds.ac.uk/postgraduates

OR YOU CAN EMAIL: pglaw@leeds.ac.uk

For postgraduate research details see page 39.
See for yourself

Choosing the right university is an important decision and an investment in your future. Visit us to experience what it’s like to be a Leeds Law student and where that can take you.

FIND OUT MORE:
www.leeds.ac.uk/visitus

£12.5m
LIBERTY BUILDING
HOME

UNIVERSITY OPEN DAYS 2018
The university usually holds a postgraduate open day in February each year.

FIND OUT MORE:
www.leeds.ac.uk/pgopendays

UNIVERSITY FAIRS
If you cannot come to the campus there are also various opportunities to meet our representatives in the UK and across the globe.

These include the Russell Group Roadshow which is held at various universities throughout the UK, normally in November.

FOR INFORMATION ON OUR EXTENSIVE INTERNATIONAL VISIT:
www.leeds.ac.uk/visitstoyourcountry

FROM OUTSIDE THE UK
Leeds Bradford Airport provides international access. It is approximately 7 miles away from the city centre.

FROM WITHIN THE UK
Leeds is well served by the major UK motorways. Frequent trains link Leeds with the UK’s major cities. London is just two and a half hours away.

ACCOMMODATION
We guarantee university accommodation to all international students embarking on a postgraduate degree. UK/EU students are also welcome to apply although we cannot guarantee a place.

We have a range of residences available, including St Mark’s and Grayson Heights which are for postgraduate students only.

FURTHER INFORMATION IS AVAILABLE ON THE WEBSITE:
www.accommodation.leeds.ac.uk

Some students also choose to apply for private sector accommodation. Independent help and advice is available on all aspects of this from Unipol, an organisation which can help you find a suitable home for your time in Leeds.

MORE INFORMATION:
www.unipol.org.uk

SCHOOL OF LAW
WWW.LAW.LEEDS.AC.UK/POSTGRADUATES
POSTGRADUATE DEGREES

WWW.LAW.LEEDS.AC.UK/POSTGRADUATES